COMMENTARY:

The mood at the Cult Crime Impact Network is one of cautious optimism, due to the positive feedback and many letters of encouragement we receive from you. We are pleased that many law enforcement agencies from all across the U.S. and Canada have recognized the reality of ritual-related and satanic crimes. These agencies have responded with assignment of manpower to develop expertise and complete investigations of cult/occult motivation crimes as legitimate topics for police attention. Some of the more progressive departments have designated specialized investigators and units to focus on the cult/occult crime problem. We also receive many encouraging reports about the growing interaction between law enforcement and other community professionals concerned with interdicting criminal behavior, rescuing, treating, and supporting cult/occult crime victims and survivors.

Further positive reports come from a number of states whose legislatures are currently considering of statutes designed to impose severe penalties for crimes perpetrated during rituals or involving torture and death. In Baton Rouge, LA., a bill exists which would "...outlaw Satanic and cult rituals involving animal sacrifices or human torture..." according to an A.P. wirestory dated 6-13-89. This bill, which has passed through a Senate committee, was introduced by Rep. James David Cain (D-Dry Creek) in the House and passed to the Senate without objection. The bill would make it "...illegal to commit ritual acts such as those in which animals or people are mutilated, sacrificed or tortured. Violators would be subject to jail sentences between five and 25 years and fines up to $25,000. The bill would make murders committed during the ritualistic acts capital offenses punishable by death. Cain said the bill was carefully written to avoid mention of Satan or religion to try to avoid constitutional problems..."

In a similar A.P. story out of Harrisburg, PA., dated 6-14-89, Rep. Joseph Lashinger (R-Montgomery) has reportedly introduced legislation which would "...prohibit ritualistic physical or psychological abuse of a child as part of a ceremony, rite initiation, observance, performance, or practice..." The approach of both these bills is to focus on the specific criminal acts and circumstances involved instead of addressing belief systems. We now know enough about the methodology of cult/occult crime and ritual abuse to write intelligent, Constitutionally-water-tight statutes which will put pressure on perpetrators. (Sentencing enhancement provisions have worked well with firearms violations during the commission of felony crimes in many states, so the theory is sound.)

Rep. Lashinger, during an interview in Pennsylvania, recognized the growing problems linked with the worship of satanism. He said "...Not only are our children being brainwashed into becoming cult members, they are also becoming victims of cult rituals. Pennsylvania's children are being physically, emotionally, and sexually abused in ritualistic ceremonies..." Under the provisions of his bill, first time offenders could be sentenced to 5-15 yrs. in prison and repeat offenders would face life imprisonment.

Legislation of this type is also being considered in Texas and Washington State. If you know of similar legislation or existing statutes dealing ritual crime, please send copies of the drafts/laws to C.C.I.N. Also, do what you can to support your legislators' efforts to pass such laws. As more states adopt such criminal statutes, the legitimacy of the cult/occult investigative expertise field will be enhanced. Ultimately, this "grassroots pressure" will force statistical collection on the state and federal levels--at least listing cult/occult motivation as a modifying factor for felony crimes already on the books. In this way, we will begin to develop a clearer picture of the scope and depth of the cult/occult crime problem, subsequently justifying the allocation of significant resources to address the pertinent issues.

Training is the crushing need, not only in police circles, but in all the related and assist professions. Legislators, particularly, need to become informed of the realities of ritual/cult/occult crime. Informed lawmakers who pass forceful, yet Constitutionally sound, statutes will be a tremendous asset to the police. The progressive efforts of lawmakers in the states mentioned undoubtedly resulted from the growing national awareness of this problem...a joint effort in which law enforcers worked in concert with many knowledgeable citizens and the media to keep the issues alive and in the public eye. We hope to see real changes in the law enforcement community as old conceptions are replaced by a response which is truly timely and effective. We are challenged as a society to take swift, sure action to insure the apprehension, prosecution, and punishment of all who would dare to victimize our citizens during ritual or cult/occult practices. This is our "Call to Attention;" many recent indicators point to the fact that our 'sleeping giant' is awakening at last!

I. RITUAL CHILD ABUSE IN CENTRAL ILLINOIS:

"Several credible people have been telling stories of Satan worship services, held in Central Illinois...", according to the Decatur (Ill.) Tribune, 3-1-89, "...with a backdrop of sex, drugs, child abuse and animal mutilation...One young witness even claims that two babies were sacrificed during two different Satanic services in Macon County..." The most bizarre account tells of "...a preschool girl who alleges she was forced by her father to participate in the services...Some professionals believe there is no doubt as to its authenticity, because of evidence involved in connection with the story...Robin...began to talk about people wearing black and red robes and having their faces painted..." She also talked about "...some type of ceremony where there was "a black witch and a white witch", with "candles on the floor"...Robin said they put her in the floor in the middle of some kind of drawing and put candles around her...she later identified the drawing as a pentagram..." [Ed. Note: The terms 'black' and 'white witch' are direct quotes from this newspaper article.] Robin also reported that drugs were involved, dogs were killed, and on two different occasions "...she said she saw babies being killed..." According to the reporter, "...Although area law enforcement officials are acquainted with Robin's story, the allegations remain allegations." C.C.I.N. requests that readers in that area monitor developments and forward additional information to the Editor as the police make progress in their investigations.

II. MANASSAS (VA.) OFFICIALS SEE GROWING TEEN SATANISM:

The story is becoming routine, but the corrosive effect of satanism upon our youth and society cannot be ignored. In a recent report from Virginia, Manassas police and school officials have come to recognize growing teenage involvement in satanic practices, yet a local professor of psychology downplays the dangers of teen involvement. "...A Prince William police officer says there are hundreds of students in the county involved in satanism...[the juvenile officer]...says he has been investigating satanism in the county schools for the past six to eight months...[and]...has seen signs such as children joining gangs and "playing around with spells and having symbols on their clothes..." Professor Peter Sheras, Univ. of Virginia (Clinical and School Psychology expert), is quoted as saying, "The fact is that there is a body of cultists around to whom the kids might be drawn, but you can't say that rising satanism is causing problems. You can't say that if it weren't here, there wouldn't be problems." [Ed. Note: The Editors hope that no-one will be lulled into inactivity in confronting actual crimes or cult/occult situations because satanism isn't the only cause of problems in our world!]

III. LEGACY FROM MATAMOROS:

A recent article in the Ukiah, CA., Mercury News, reported that a local information group is calling upon police officials and the public to take such signs of satanic activity seriously. Peggy Smith, V.P. of the group 'Victims of Systems' said, "...As awful as the murders in Mexico were, maybe people here will finally open their eyes...There's a long history of cults in this area, and it's time something was done about it..." Victims of Systems is a group of parents who organized two years ago to make the public aware of the nature and extent of ritual crime. "...Now, after the cult murders of 15 men in Mexico shocked the world...some residents of the Redwood Empire say they hope authorities will finally get serious about the ritual crimes that have been going on in their area for years..."

IV. INDIANA ARSONS LINKED TO SATANISM:

An Indiana arson investigation has identified several suspects who have exhibited outward signs of the practice of satanism. The group of teens and young adults frequently use fire in conjunction with other crimes they commit. The vehicle and building arson scenes usually have satanic graffiti painted nearby.

V. IDAHO RURAL COMMUNITY PLAGUED BY TEEN SATANISTS:

As the Chief of Police downplays the activities of a group of teenage satanists in the small farming community of Homedale, Idaho, the continued interest of neighboring communities is aroused. The Idaho Press Tribune, Vol. 9 #251, described the activity like this: "...A group of youths claiming to be "devil worshippers" are intimidating young girls in Homedale and local police hope it can be stopped before events get out of control..." "We do have a problem in the area," said Homedale Police Chief Mike Moysard. "...[primarily a]...group of young people here, mostly social dropouts and school dropouts. A lot of them are deeply involved in narcotics, that same group is practicing some sort of occult activities..."

"...Based upon witness accounts and police information, the group apparently dabbles in voodoo, witchcraft and satanism...[it]...consists of about six youths--mostly juveniles from the ages of 14-20--who are seriously involved in occult activities...About six to eight other youths are on the fringes of the group, Moysard said, adding that most are area residents and some live with their parents..."

"...The group has been using "very heavy intimidation"...It's gotten completely out of hand...[with]...some students who were "petrified" and "absolutely shaking and in tears"...One junior high school student described the atmosphere at school as "pretty scary"..."

Ed. Note: This small group of dabblers soon experienced the power of fear to affect and control others. They spread the word that a young virgin would be sacrificed in an upcoming ritual. Probably, their satanic practices have not developed to the point of ritual homicide, but they seem to take perverse pleasure in creating havoc among the adolescents, parents, and officials in this normally placid town. In a short period of time, a group of "losers" tasted power over others. Such is the appeal and instant gratification of many occult traditions and belief systems.

VI. 'TWILIGHT ZONE' IS EX-COP'S BEAT:

In File 18 Newsletter #89-2, we covered a Time article about an Indianapolis-area sheriff's deputy whose insistence on continuing the investigation of ritual crime in his jurisdiction resulted in increasing opposition from his superiors. Reporter Ken Kusmer, The Associated Press, covered the aftermath of this story, as printed in the 5-7-89 Columbian newspaper published in Vancouver, WA.:

"Former cop Michael D. Nelson once was described as "walking a beat with one foot in the Twilight Zone." He's in it up to his elbows now, at the price of a once-promising career.

Nelson, former chief of detectives in Hendricks County...quit when Sheriff Roy W. Waddell told him he no longer could pursue an investigation of satanic rituals that began with a spate of grave desecrations 18 months ago.

A private investigator now, he helps alleged victims of satanists. But he finds there's little demand for his services.

Nelson, 40,...was a well-respected detective in September 1987, when an isolated complaint of grave tampering began a quiet obsession. The headstones of a small family plot had been turned over and desecrated in a wooded, secluded area of Hendricks County. A man who lived nearby, after overhearing a barroom conversation, had gone out to see for himself.

"He was in tears, he could hardly talk, he was alleging it was devil worshippers," Nelson said..."

Rumors of satanism had permeated the county for years. Nelson, in his only brush with the occult, had been on patrol once in the area when he came across what he believed was a circle of devil worshipers. That experience left him shaken.

News of the grave desecration prompted others to come forward with similar stories, and Nelson soon had 15 graves that had been disturbed at seven sites over a year and one-half. There also were ghoulish details such as reports of red-robed cultists gathering near the home of a convicted murderer and an alleged attack on a motorist by a hooded man with a spiked glove.

As circumstances would have it, it also was Halloween season. By January, Nelson and his "Twilight Zone" beat had attracted national publicity.

It was heady stuff for Nelson, but it was becoming a headache for local officials concerned about the image of their suburban community. The detective, meanwhile, was coming up with "a ton of leads" but making little headway in the case.

"Effective immediately," began the letter from Sheriff Waddell in Jan., 1988, "you will discontinue any investigation of the reported disturbances of graves and the gathering of intelligence pertaining to satanic cults."

By Feb. 15, Nelson was transferred to uniformed patrol.

"I was taken back. I was speechless," Nelson said. But he pursued the investigation on his own time until he was reminded he still represented the department and should cease and desist. He ceased being a Hendricks County deputy on May 26.

"I think it's more important for the people to know about this and to know how to deal with this than to keep it covered up," Nelson said.

Satanists are guilty of not only grave robbery but also arson, rape, kidnapping, brainwashing and even child sacrifice, Nelson says. He compares the public apathy to the light regard for the drug culture in the 1950's. "Look at us now," he says.

Ed. Note: Of course, the article deals with no confidential personnel issues which may be involved in this conflict between a deputy and his superior officers. It is indicative, however, of the necessity to maintain a balance and base every action upon fact and prudent consideration. Ex-Dep. Nelson made his decision to speak from outside the walls, similar to the one made by C.C.I.N. founders when we decided to incorporate as a non-profit organization in 1987. Politics and police jurisdictions hamper the free flow of this often bizarre information as much as anything we have encountered. We must all strive to overcome all artificial barriers which constrict the free flow of information we so desperately need to combat satanic/cult/occult criminality.

VII. RAPID CITY, S.D., TEEN SATANISM REPORTED:

The Rapid City newspaper carried the following description of teen satanism activities in this gateway city to the Black Hills:

"Arson, rape, animal mutilations and the desecration of religious sanctuaries at the hands of satanic cultists--the reports read like a horror movie script. But local police say the horror is happening in Rapid City and is on the rise...A suspicious Sunday morning fire caused an estimated $150,000 damage to Faith Lutheran Church...investigators listed the fire as arson...Almost exactly a year later, on Aug. 8, 1986, three teen-agers entered a sanctuary at the Cathedral of Our lady of Perpetual Help...they destroyed Bibles, urinated on curtains, and stole communion wafers and wine. A satanic symbol, a five-pointed star pointing down inside a circle, was stuck inside a book for prayer requests...They took a crucifix off the wall, tore the Corpus of Christ off rosaries and threw all the crucifixes on the floor...one of the crucifixes had been burned with a match..."

Three teens arrested for the crime boasted rather than showing remorse. They said they desecrated the church for satan.

In another case "...A mid-teen-age girl was subjected to a ritual in which an older teen-age high priest placed her on an altar and had sexual intercourse with her. The case died because the victim was afraid to testify--and that is a fairly typical problem..."

In a residence burglary, the cultists wrote "redrum" on a mirror, which is "murder" spelled backwards. In still another occurrence, "...An 11 year old girl started a small circular fire in a field...to "complete the ritual"...The fire got out of hand and firefighters had to put it out..."

"Satan was scrawled on the hood of one man's car, and within a recent one-month period, people have found mutilated animals, including dogs with heads and front paws missing.

Det. Fred Eisenbraun, Rapid City P.D. Juvenile Officer, has become an authority on cult/occult motivation crimes, especially among youth. Fred is a cheerful, helpful resource who's in demand as a workshop and seminar speaker all over South Dakota. He and C.C.I.N. President Larry Jones recently shared the dias at day-long workshops in Pierre and Rapid City, attended by over 350 officers and community professionals.

VIII: 'METAL MANIA' VIDEO BY BOB LARSON:

Bob Larson Ministries, P.O. Box 36A, Denver, CO., 80236, has recently released an hour long VHS tape entitled Metal Mania. Bob has a long history of going into the field to experience first-hand what is transpiring in the worldwide attacks by the cults and occult on mankind. He visited India in the 60's and accurately identified and predicted the deluge of Eastern mysticism into Western culture and thought. Since then he has taken to task every pertinent contemporary issue threatening our youth on his flagship call-in radio talkshow "Talk Back." Recently, Bob toured with SLAYER, a black metal rock band, in Europe so that he could respond with authority to the questions and comments of his callers.

If you have ever wondered what the mindset of black metal musicians is, or, what they expect to accomplish with their music, you need to write to Bob for a copy of Metal Mania.

In this tape, Bob explores the baseline issues in the rock music phenomenon in a way that the layman (or the 'out-of-touch-with-the-teen-scene-adult!') can answer inquiries intelligently. This tape, priced at $55.78, is a valuable resource for your cult/occult training library. (Part of the purchase price is used to support other B.L.M. outreaches.) Call B.L.M. at: 1-800-223-2582. Ask about other cult/occult training materials offered by this ministry. AND, if Bob Larson's "Talk Back" isn't offered by your local radio station, call the manager and ask that it be added!

IX. TEXAS WITCHES COURT COPS:

A Texas officer reports that he received a letter of invitation to a seminar presented by witchcraft leaders. The meeting—March 28, 1989—was billed as a "Seminar/Panel/Question Session with White Witchcraft leaders." The letter stated, "...Two officers from your department have been invited to attend...this seminar is not open to the public, the media, or anyone other than law enforcement officers. If an officer is attending in plain clothes, please have him or her carry a copy of this letter with them. There is no charge to your department for this seminar." This type of dialogue could be very beneficial and enlightening for the attendees, especially if they were familiar with the topic area already. We do not know whether the officer(s) actually attended the seminar.

X. NIGHT STALKER HAS HIS DAY IN COURT—FINALLY!:

"...Three and a half years after his capture by an angry mob, the defendant in the "Night Stalker" case begins trial...[Ramirez is]...charged with the satanic serial slayings of 13 people that terrorized California in 1985..." The Los Angeles A.P. news article continues: "Even for sensational serial murder trials, this one will have unusual security for the unpredictable defendant...who once yelled "Hail Satan!" and flashed a demonic symbol in court...Ramirez, 28, a pale, shaggy-haired drifter from El Paso, Texas, [Ed. Note: who, according to a C.B.N. special report, was practicing satanism as early as age 14 in El Paso.] is charged with 13 counts of murder and 30 other felonies, including rape, robbery, and attempted murder. He could receive the death penalty if convicted...[of charges which stem from]...a 1985 summer crime spree in which a nocturnal killer...entered homes through unlocked windows or doors, raped women, killed both men and women with execution-style gunshot blasts to the head and stole jewelry and other valuables...The entire trial is expected to take two years..."

"One victim's eyes were gouged out. Several women testified at Ramirez' preliminary hearing in 1986 that after the killer murdered their husbands they were raped and ordered to "swear to Satan..."

"He was arrested after he was chased and beaten by an angry East Los Angeles mob during the Labor Day Weekend when he allegedly tried to steal a car."

XI. BUNKER SPACE FOR SALE:

Hal Mansfield, Religious Movement Resource Center, wrote that the Church Universal Triumphant's "Guru Ma", Elizabeth Claire Prophet, says the Soviets will invade the U.S. 7 years and 7 weeks from October 2, 1989. All members of her organization are urged to come to the main camp and prepare. Bunker space can be purchased for $5-$10,000 per person...such a deal!

XII. BERDELLA CASE IN KANSAS CITY, MO.:

On Jan. 11, 1989, The Sedalia Democrat reported that Robert A. Berdella denied that his crimes were connected to satanism. He has plead guilty to torturing and murdering six men and cutting up their bodies. Berdella called them his "play toys." "...Berdella, who was arrested when a man ran naked from his house and said he had been tortured, plead guilty...[in December, 1988]...to five murders. He had earlier pleaded guilty to the murder of a man whose skull was found buried in the backyard of his midtown home...Berdella...had amassed an eclectic collection of exotic artifacts...[and]...went to great lengths to deny that satanism was involved in the murders. What some police had described as a ceremonial robe was an Afghan peasant shirt," he said..."

Berdella put the victim's body parts in the trash which was hauled to the city dump. Police do not expect to recover any of the bodies.

XIII. JONESTOWN COULD HAPPEN AGAIN:

Patricia Ryan, daughter of murdered U.S. Congressman Ryan, believes that mass suicides of cult followers could occur again, similar to the Jonestown, Guyana, tragedy ten years ago. The Des Moines Register, Nov. 4, 1988, carried Miss Ryan's statements quoted in an Associated Press story from Washington, D.C. She said, "...We need to keep working, keep educating, keep helping so the question 'How could something like Jonestown have happened again?' is a question our children will never have to answer...in all, 912 people died at the People's Temple...In her talk at the...[Tenth Anniversary Memorial Service held at the]...Jefferson Memorial, Ryan said experts "estimate that more than 10 million people may be involved in destructive cults today...That's 10 million people whose minds have been taken away from them...10 million people who have lost all sense of what is real."

Mr. Ken Wooden, National Center for Children's Justice, P.O. Box 4343, Shelburne, VT., 05482, 1-802-985-8458, documented the People's Temple/Jim Jones phenomenon in his book "The Children of Jonestown" (which may now be out of print--if you can locate a copy in a library, it is well worth reading.) The techniques and preverted-but-masterful, logic and control exercised by Jones, are standard fare for many destructive cults now operating in this country. Will we let our own history teach us?

XIV. POLICE INVOLVEMENT IN SATANIC ABUSE AND RITUALS:

Accusations of police involvement in satanic rituals are reported in a February 10, 1989, Seattle Times story about a retired Thurston County Sheriff's Deputy, and two other men, who were involved in satanism. Since that time one defendant has publically admitted ritually abusing children. The waters were muddied for a time when a supposed-expert, who was summoned to assist authorities with the investigation, made groundless and damaging public pronouncements about supposed mishandling of the case by police investigators. The case has grown so complex that the Prosecuting Attorney recently dropped the original charges "without prejudice" with intent to continue the investigation and refile when better case preparations are complete.

"...The accusations--made by one of the alleged rape victims and a third defendant who has agreed to testify against the first two men--include claims that the three men belonged to a group which sacrificed animals and humans in allegiance to Satan...Ritualistic incidents are alleged to have taken place as many as 17 years ago, when several alleged devotees, dressed in dark robes, gathered at a Thurston County site..."

Thurston County Sheriff Gary Edwards stated, "...I have been a policeman for 19 years, and I have never seen anything of this magnitude...This is what you might look at as an ongoing conspiracy of criminal events..." [Ed. Note: Investigators: Don't forget to apply your criminal conspiracy and RICCO Act statutes to cult/occult investigations...they'll give you another way to approach charging in a case and obtain warrants.]

"...At least 10 other people, besides the three defendants, have been named as witnesses to some of the rituals, according to investigators...[with]...new accusations and additional witnesses...surfacing almost daily."

XV. SKINHEAD-SATANISM LINK ESTABLISHED:

The following article, reprinted with permission from Klan Watch Intelligence Report, February 1989, documents a link between satanism and the skinhead movement which resulted in a homicide. Many of the previously recognized walls of separation between separate groups and belief systems are beginning to crumble and dissipate, revealing heretofore hidden links and common philosophies between them. Skinheads are now closely allied with the Klan, the Aryan Nation, and other identity church or white supremacist and even outlaw biker groups. Finally, the satanic underpinnings of the German Nazi and American Neo-Nazi movements are becoming undeniably clear.

"LAS VEGAS, NEVADA...

The police called it a "thrill killing." Two Skinheads who shared an obsession with satanism walked into a convenience store the night of February 9, 1988, and shot the 21-year-old clerk in the face, killing her instantly, for no apparent reason. A customer in the store was shot and wounded as he tried to run for help. The murderer took no money before they fled the store.

Edward G. Bennett, 18, of Lehi, Utah, and Joseph Beeson, 17, of Orem, Utah, were charged with homicide, attempted homicide, attempted robbery, and use of a deadly weapon.

Beeson and Bennett were extremists even in Skinhead terms. The two had been convicted on drug charges, and Beeson had a long juvenile record of theft, burglary, and robbery. They advertised their dual Skinhead and satanic allegiances with tattoos, and played in a rock band they called Rigor Mortis. Edward Bennett gave himself the nickname ERK (for Eddie the Rotting Corpse.)

With about a dozen other Utah Valley Skinheads, they practiced devil worship at a regular meeting place. During one of those meetings, an informer told police, Bennett confessed to firing the shot that killed the convenience store clerk.

Edward Bennett was convicted of first degree murder in September and sentenced to death by lethal injection. Joseph Beeson pleaded guilty to first degree murder in October and was sentenced to a double life prison term without parole possibility."

XVI. FILE 18 BACK ISSUES:

Last year we announced that C.C.I.N. staff intended to re-format and reproduce all the valuable articles appearing in past editions of the File 18 Newsletter. Many of you have mailed in requests for the back issues along with payment. This project is still awaiting completion due to unavoidable setbacks. When the back issue packet is re-issued in our new standard format, we will announce it in this Newsletter. My apologies to those who have waited patiently for so long. All those who have ordered back issues should expect a letter from C.C.I.N. shortly.--Larry Jones, President.
